Campsites & Hostels on the South Downs Way

NATIONAL TRAIL

Please note that the South Downs Way runs through cultivated land, unlike some trails, so wild camping can be problematic. Legally you are not allowed to wild camp on any land without permission, however if you ask permission of the local landowner or farmer first, most will not object. Please be polite and if you are asked to move on please do so. Always be discrete, take all your rubbish with you and never light fires. Please do not try to wild camp on National Trust or Natural England land, as you will be breaking the byelaws.

Campsites on the South Downs Way

(listed west to east)

Sites are not checked or accredited by the National Trails Team – you are strongly advised to check prices and availability in advance. The figure in Bold is the distance along the Trail from Winchester and the + figure is the distance from the Trail to the campsite. All distances are rounded to the nearest mile. Dates indicate opening times.
